"It's obvious how much they're into each other," says an eyewitness at the hot spot where Katy and Orlando had dinner. "Sparks were flying!"

Katy & Orlando DATING!

ORLANDO BLOOM WOOS KATY PERRY ON A ROMANTIC PRE-VALENTINE'S DATE.

AFTER some high-profile public flirting, Katy Perry and Orlando Bloom have taken their attraction to the next level. On the evening of Feb. 3, the pop star and the movie idol drove to trendy Sunset Tower Hotel in his car. They sat chatting and holding hands before joining the likes of Jennifer Aniston and Jason Bateman for dinner.

Restaurant patrons were all "aw-w-ws!" watching the smitten stars. "They were in a group, but only had eyes for each other," one eyewitness reports. "He doted on her, and she grinned nonstop, even blushing when he put his hand under the table to touch her thigh."

The first hint that Katy, 31, and Orlando, 39, might be an item arose during Golden Globes after parties on Jan. 10. They flirted, danced and reportedly left together. Yet two days later, at designer Stella McCartney's show, they ignored each other—an act, insiders say, to throw off paparazzi.

"The romance is still so new, they weren't ready to broadcast it yet," a friend of the actor explains. Both stars have good reasons for taking things slowly. Katy's relationship with John Mayer was on again just last month, and Orlando is a ladies' man most recently linked to Selena Gomez, 16 years his junior. Yet his pal admits the budding lovebirds can't keep away from each other: "They see each other almost daily."

But they've got big Valentines plans! ★

"They didn't think their flirt-a-thon at the Golden Globes would pick up like it did!" a friend of Orlando's says.

GEORGE & AMAL FINALLY ADOPT!

George's parents, Nick and Nina, have welcomed a new member to the Clooney family.

PAWS CELEB!

Nate

IT'S PUPPY LOVE FOR THE CLOONEYS, AS GEORGE SAVES THE DAY FOR AN ADORABLE, INJURED MUTT.

GEORGE Clooney isn't just rich, handsome and famous — he's got a heart of gold, too! The Hail, Caesar! star did not one but two good deeds when he adopted a disabled dog named Nate and delivered him to his parent's door on Christmas Eve. The pup spent nine months in a kennel at LuvFurMutts Animal Rescue in Milford, OH. To most, Nate seemed like damaged goods as he suffered from a walking disability. "People took one look at Nate and shook their head," Carol Roberts, the founder of LuvFurMutts, tells Star. "But not George!"

"George found Nate on PetFinder's website and fell in love with his story. Guess he's got a thing for the underdog!" said Carol, revealing that the doggy was a gift for his parents, Nick and Nina, whose beloved terrier had recently passed away. "His assistant, Angel, told me to pick out a card that played 'Jingle Bells,' and write inside, 'We wanted you to have Nate to enjoy Christmas with. Love, George, Amal, and Angel.'"

The animal lover, 54, and the human rights lawyer, 38, have three rescue dogs of their own, but Nate's big reveal proved that they differ when it comes to canine style.

"Amal told me to dress Nate up in an elf costume," recalled Carol. "But George caught wind of her plan and said, 'No, let that man walk in there with his dignity!'"

Now, Nate is a bonafide member of the family. "As soon as I put Nate in Nina's arms she had tears in her eyes," Carol shared. "She's a wonderful lady with a big heart, and Nate's health improves every day. I really believe Nate was one of those dogs who needed help, and nobody but George and his family were going to help him. They're heroes." ★

WTFACE!

FERGIE'S SMOOTH MOVE

Big girls don't cry... they head to the doc! Fergie, who's almost 41, recently sparked surgery speculation after stepping out with a newly line-free, plastic face.

"She works incredibly hard to keep her body at its absolute best, and she wants her face to match," says a friend. The Black Eyed Peas singer has herself admitted that she isn't opposed to getting a makeover: "I would maybe consider a nip and tuck," she revealed. "I've been sun-tanning forever and damaging my skin. I'd be open to Botox." And it seems that she took the plunge!

"It looks like she's had aggressive laser-resurfacing treatments to smooth and tighten her skin," says New York City-based plastic surgeon Dr. Norman Rowe. "Her neck has also been treated with Botox and ultrasound tightening treatment." But Star's expert gives her makeover a rare thumbs-up: "I think it's a nice improvement." Glamorous! ★

MODERN ROMANCE?

SARAH HYLAND HITS ON KEITH

Nicole Kidman may look like Hollywood's reigning ice queen, but the ageless Aussie is pretty good at playing a prank, which became evident at a SAG Awards afterparty, when Modern Family star Sarah Hyland found herself chatting with Nicole and her country star husband, Keith Urban.

"Sarah said something like, 'Keith, you should totally act, you're definitely handsome enough!'" says an eyewitness. "Nicole's face suddenly went to stone, and she snapped at Sarah, 'You're not hitting on my husband, are you?'"

The petite brunette blurted out a string of apologies and was nearly in tears when Nicole cracked up and said, "Oh, honey, I'm just kidding!" Who knew she was such an undercover comedian? ★

NENE CRUSADES AGAINST HER COSTARS

The self-proclaimed Queen of Atlanta is ready to retake the throne and rid her kingdom of enemies. Star hears that Real Housewives of Atlanta diva NeNe Leakes wants to be back on the show full time next season — but only if Kenya Moore and Kim Fields get the boot.

“NeNe wants to be top dog, not make appearances here and there. For her, it’s all or nothing,” says a Bravo insider. “She’s trying to convince producers that everyone’s sick of Kenya’s drama and Kim is too boring to watch.”

Indeed, the Facts of Life star has fizzled on the hit reality series. “It’s almost like Kim never even saw the show before she joined it,” the insider admits. “She hides behind her husband and her kids and doesn’t seem to fit in at all. There’s no real story line for her.”

Sorry, Kim, but in the world of reality TV, you take the good, you take the bad, you take them both and there you have — ratings gold! ★

O-U-T OF THE

KATIE'S PHOTOSHOP DEMANDS

So much for aging gracefully — at least while Photoshop is around. Katie Couric, who’s making the rounds promoting her new gun control documentary, Under the Gun, is begging photographers to airbrush her “to the max.”

“She despises getting older and wants to be touched up as much as possible,” says the source, citing her recent More magazine cover as an example of Katie’s extreme retouching. But the blur tool can only do so much.

“They can’t make her look 30,” says the industry spy. “She’s either going to accept a few wrinkles or visit a plastic surgeon!” ★

FALLING STARS

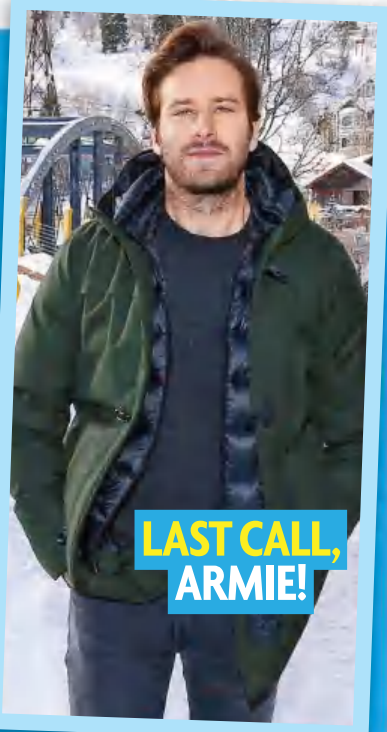

ARMIE THE PRIMP DADDY?

Groomer has it that Armie Hammer needs to dial down the vanity and get down to business. The actor irked studio bosses who sent him to the Sundance Film Festival to promote his upcoming film, The Birth of a Nation, when he refused to take photos or do interviews because his “personal groomer” wasn’t on hand.

“Armie had just been touched up and looked perfectly fine, but he threw a tantrum,” recalls a witness. “He only wanted his stylist to coif him and wouldn’t cooperate until they arrived.”

But even then, the Lone Ranger actor preferred pints to people.

“He was more into drinking than promoting the movie,” sniped the festivalgoer. “He totally missed out on press opportunities because he was always at the bar.” ★

LAST CALL,
ARMIE!

THE ROCK ROLLS OUT NEW FITNESS VENTURE

The Rock is cookin’ up something new! Dwayne Johnson is taking his passion for fitness to the next level by teaming up with legendary bodybuilding competition, Mr. Olympia! The Rock and his production company, which are behind HBO’s Ballers and the upcoming Baywatch remake, are ready to pump up the festivities. “We have a great respect for the determination, drive and work ethic necessary to succeed in this sport,” says the hunky screen star. “Our goal is to turn this historic weekend into the must-see and must-attend fitness expo of the world.” Rise and grind! ★

"If I had my way I would still be married to Lamar," Khloé has admitted in the past. "I love him dearly, and I will always love him."

Khloé & Lamar BACK TOGETHER?

From extramarital flings to drug-fueled binges, sources say the Odoms' bond might very well be... Unbreakable.

"I want to be his support system," Khloé Kardashian said, standing vigil at Lamar Odom's bedside following his near-fatal drug overdose in October. "When something tragic like that happens, you really reassess your life and what's important to you." So much so, the Kocktails With Khloé host, 31, and her estranged husband, 36, have grown closer over the past four months of rehabilitation, and a source says a reconciliation could be in the cards.

After Lamar was released from Cedars-

Sinai Medical Center, Khloé moved the former NBA player into her gated Calabasas, Calif., community, renting the home right next door to hers rather than admitting him into an in-patient rehab facility. "He's making incredible progress," says a family insider. "He's walking and talking, and his memory is returning." The same could be said of Khloé.

"She's started calling him Lam Lam again," the source reveals, adding that Lamar practically lives with Khloé at this point. "Seeing him clean and sober reminds her of the man she married." Not that everyone believes Khloé has Lamar's best interests in mind.

"Khloé doesn't seem to be in any rush to enroll Lamar into a drug rehabilitation center. It's almost like she enjoys keeping him under her supervision," explains the insider. "Aside from losing whatever control she has over him right now, there's no doubt Khloé is worried about what kind of secrets Lamar might spill in his condition — and she doesn't want his ex-wife and kids in the picture, either!" ★

Russell CROWING OVER KIM

Not so confidential now. Russell Crowe pulled quite a few strings to land his former costar, Kim Basinger, a plum role in The Nice Guys — all in the hopes of seducing the former fashion model, 62, on set, says a source. “He’d show up at Kim’s trailer with coffee in the morning and he was always asking her to run lines with him — alone — in his,” reveals the insider. The only problem? Kim is dating hairstylist Mitch Stone. “Russell loves a challenge, though,” explains the source, noting the 51-year-old actor’s affair with a then married Meg Ryan. “Kim hasn’t caved. But with all those long, lonely nights coming up on the promotional trail, Russell thinks his persistence might finally pay off.” ★

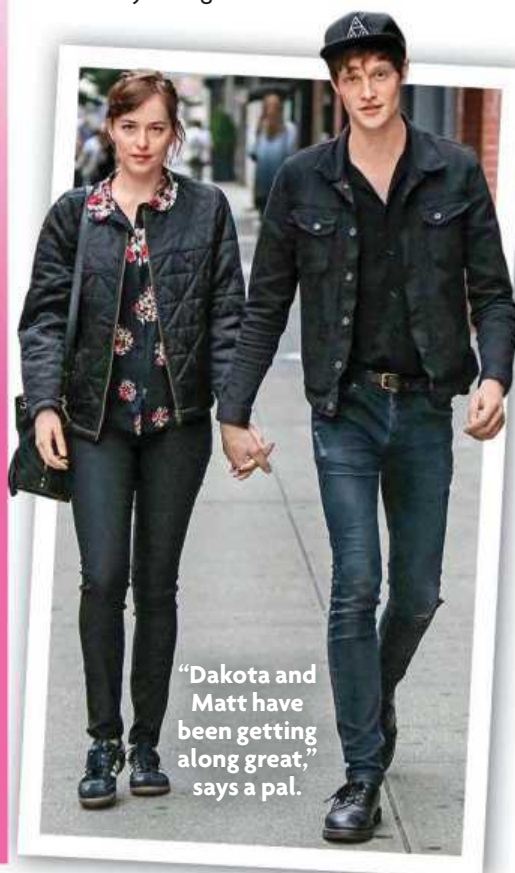

Dakota & Matt MOVING IN

Dakota Johnson might be busy promoting her new film, How to Be Single, but it sure sounds like the 26-year-old actress has gotten the hang of dating. According to a source, Dakota and her on-again, off-again boyfriend of two years, Matthew Hitt, are officially living together. “Matthew’s been staying at Dakota’s apartment until they can find a place of their own,” says the pal. Not that the couple’s decision to cohabitate was a romantic one. The Drowners frontman, 28, issued an ultimatum — move in or move on — after Star spotted Dakota snuggling up to Heidi Klum’s beau, Vito Schnabel at a bar in New York City back in December. “She realized that Matthew wasn’t messing around, and she didn’t want to lose him,” says the source. “At first it sounded a bit like putting a Band-Aid on a bullet wound, but it’s actually brought them a lot closer.” ★

Amy BANKROLLS HER BOYFRIEND

Amy Schumer and Ben Hanisch haven’t left each other’s sides since going public with their romance in January, and now Star can reveal why. The comedian, 34, offered her boyfriend a job as her unofficial assistant! “Amy is one of the most sought-after actors right now, and with a jam-packed schedule to prove it. Hiring Ben to help out just means they’ll get to spend a lot more time together,” a source explains (although Amy’s rep denies the appointment). “She’s in love. Amy and Ben never want to be apart and she trusts him with all her heart.” But that, friends fear, might not be so wise. As Star previously reported, the furniture designer, 29, has long harbored dreams of making it big in Hollywood. “I don’t think it’s far-fetched at all that Amy’s showbiz connections could have upped Ben’s interest in her,” says an insider. “He’s ready and willing to do her bidding.” ★

JAIMIE Alexander has a real Blindspot when it comes to fiancé Peter Facinelli. According to an eyewitness, the Twilight star, 42, was otherwise engaged at the Laurel Tavern in Studio City, Calif., on Jan. 23, flirting with a real-life Jane Doe during a boys' night out. "Peter and his pal sat down for dinner when these two girls from the bar approached their table. They sat down, and as the night progressed, Peter became very interested in one of them," says the source, though a rep for the actor denies it. "They were sitting quite close, whispering in each other's ears and acting awfully touchy-feely. If that had been my fiancé, I'd certainly be worried." As Jaimie, 31, should be: The couple has long been plagued by rumors that their relationship began while Peter was married to Jennie Garth. After all, how you get him...is how you lose him. ★

Despicable Him: Jason Segel was more than happy to celebrate his one-year anniversary with photographer Alexis Mixter on Jan. 23, but the Forgetting Sarah Marshall star, 36, seemed to have, well, forgotten all about his girlfriend just seven days later when he was caught using the cheesiest of pick-up lines on a woman at Ye Rustic Inn in Los Angeles. "Jason walked right on over to her and said, 'What's a pretty lady like you doing drinking alone?'" reveals an eyewitness, adding the two spent nearly two hours talking. "He asked for her number and wouldn't take no for an answer." While Jason might have thought he walked away with her digits, the source says the mystery woman actually gave him a fake phone number instead. So much for the story of How I Met Your Mother! ★

JANUARY 2015

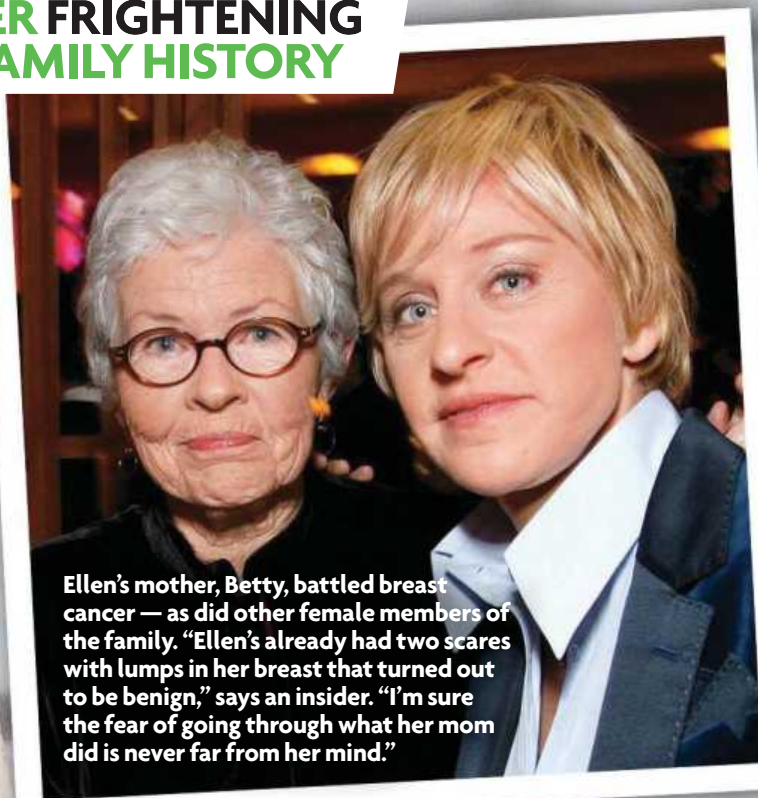

A Year's Worth Of Stress?

Onlookers were stunned by Ellen's appearance during an outing with Portia in December (top). Her looks have changed dramatically over the past year.

Ellen's HEALTH CRISIS

HER SHOCKINGLY GAUNT AND WEAKENED APPEARANCE HAS FRIENDS WORRIED ABOUT ELLEN DEGENERES' PHYSICAL CONDITION.

HER FRIGHTENING FAMILY HISTORY

Ellen's mother, Betty, battled breast cancer — as did other female members of the family. "Ellen's already had two scares with lumps in her breast that turned out to be benign," says an insider. "I'm sure the fear of going through what her mom did is never far from her mind."

USUALLY jovial and active, Ellen DeGeneres cut a distressing figure on Dec. 5 while grocery shopping in Los Angeles. The funny-woman hung on tightly to her wife, Portia DeRossi, who carried the couple's bags as she led her partner out of the store. "She seemed surprisingly frail," says one eyewitness. "I know Ellen doesn't typically wear makeup when she's not on camera, but even given that, she looked particularly drawn and tired. And it appeared as if she was really leaning on Portia for support."

The scene repeated itself again a few weeks later, during the duo's vacation on St. Bart's for Christmas and New Year's. Whereas Ellen, 58, usually takes the lead in their relationship, multiple photographs from the trip show Portia, 43, with her arm wrapped protectively around her fragile-looking wife, guiding her around the island.

Ellen's shocking transformation even has her friends alarmed. "She looks terrible — I heard she's down to 98 lbs.," says a source. "She'll plaster a smile on her face and throw herself into work, but there's no denying that something is seriously wrong."

A DARK CLOUD

Ellen has long lived with the spectre of a dreaded disease hanging over her. "Breast cancer will probably be something I'll have to deal with, because it runs in my family," she has revealed. "My mother, grandmother and aunt have all had [it]."

Ellen was 16 when her mom, Betty, was diagnosed with breast cancer and ultimately endured a mastectomy. "It was a bad time," the star has recalled. "She went in [to the hospital] because she found a lump, and then woke up and her breast was gone." Betty, now 85, is doing fine all these years later, but Ellen has said it was "devastating to see your mom go through something like that."

The memory of what her mother had to deal with surely added to Ellen's fears when she herself experienced two cancer scares. "I had a lumpectomy [in 1999]," she's confessed. "I thought I had breast cancer." The lump turned out to be be- ➤

PORTIA TO THE RESCUE

Prior to Ellen's health scare, her relationship with Portia had been strained. The couple were reportedly living apart last year — and some believe their marital stress may have contributed to Ellen's decline.

As soon as the comedian began to appear ill, however, Portia stepped in. "Now she's living full-time with Ellen again in their West Hollywood home [above], a pal says. "She's trying to take care of her, but it's tough because Ellen is used to being in control." The silver lining to this scary situation, it seems, is that it's brought the couple closer together. As the source puts it: "They still have a lot of love for each other."

"Being so run-down isn't helping her heart condition."

constantly afraid for her well-being.

She's been diagnosed with cervical polyps in the past, too, which her doctor said could well have turned malignant. The polyps were discovered by chance when she accompanied Portia to a doctor's visit and decided to have herself checked at the last minute. "We were there for her, and it turns out she didn't have them, but I did," Ellen has said. The lucky coincidence had the funnywoman thankful at the time, but after so many health scares, her loved ones wonder how long that luck will last.

HOW SHE'S COPING

To help combat her medical history, Ellen says she "take[s] care of myself" and eats "very well," but friends aren't so sure her lifestyle is keeping her healthy. "Her career is everything to her, so she completely overworks herself and refuses to take a break, which is risky for someone with a heart condition," says the source. "And she's drinking."

While Ellen's vegan diet might help to mitigate some of her risk for heart disease, Miami-based health and wellness coach Gabriela Cora, M.D., says that nign — as did the one she found nearly 15 years later, though she needed the emotional support of Portia to help her through the terrifying period before it was diagnosed. "Ellen went into a tailspin" after finding that second lump, says an insider. "But Portia managed to calm her down and encouraged her to go to the doctor." Eventually, the couple learned that the lump was benign, and they both "breathed a big sigh of relief," says the source, "but Ellen was at her wits' end there for a time."

MORE WORRIES

Unfortunately, cancer isn't the only health concern Ellen has faced in recent years. She revealed in 2005 that she has a coronary condition called atrial fibrillation. "My heart goes out of rhythm and beats too fast," she admitted, adding that she's been rushed to the emergency room for the ailment. "I had to be shocked with paddles to get my heart back into rhythm." While medication has kept her heart "pretty regular" since then, serious chest pains prompted her to call paramedics in 2011. Ellen later joked about the experience on her talk show, insisting she was "fine," but her chronic heart condition has loved ones

Still Drinking

Aboard a yacht with Portia, Harry Styles and Kendall Jenner (not pictured) on Jan. 1, Ellen was spotted holding a cocktail — but friends worry that alcohol could hurt her already fragile health. "It could weaken her heart and her immune system," a source says. "Plus, she's had issues with booze in the past."

excessive alcohol consumption could increase her odds for developing cancer. “With alcohol... you fill your body with empty calories that do not provide the nutrition you need to be healthy,” Dr. Cora notes—which might be the case for Ellen. Even though the funnywoman has been drinking, the insider claims that “she barely eats these days.”

Whether her drastic weight loss is a result of her not eating or some other health issue is triggering her diminished appetite, it’s clear to friends that Ellen is not well. “She’s looking like a shadow of her former self,” the source says. “She’s lost so much weight, and I doubt she’s sleeping much. She’s just not present these days.”

HOPES FOR THE FUTURE

While Portia has been trying to help Ellen through this difficult time, the talk-show titan hasn’t been the easiest patient. “She likes to act strong for Portia and rarely breaks down in front of her,” the insider says. “But recently, in a moment of weakness, Ellen actually apologized to Portia for being difficult to deal with. This whole ordeal has clearly had a major effect on her, emotionally as well as physically.”

Ellen’s other rock, of course, is her mother, Betty. “She’s the one Ellen usually turns to when things get bad. And honestly, she’s the only person who can truly get through to her,” the source says.

Beyond Betty and Portia, few people know the full extent of Ellen’s condition—and she’d like to keep it that way. “She’s doing everything in her power to make sure the way she’s feeling won’t impact her show,” the source says. “But keeping her health issues from her fans will be the least of her worries if it turns out she has a life-threatening illness—which right now seems like a real possibility.”

Ellen’s friends are hoping she’ll take a break from her talk show and other projects so she can focus on getting better. “She needs to slow down and look after herself or she’ll burn out,” the insider says. “Being so run-down all the time isn’t reducing her cancer risk, and it’s sure not helping her heart condition.”

For now, though, Ellen remains as busy as ever, despite her apparent physical decline. “Everyone is hoping Betty

HOLDING ON FOR DEAR LIFE!

Ellen, Portia and Betty spent the holidays together on St. Bart’s, where Portia was often seen holding Ellen protectively and leading her around (left). “Even in the midst of this crisis, Ellen insisted they go on the trip,” a source says. “She wants to enjoy life while she can.”

can get through to her, or that something clicks and she realizes things could become more serious if she doesn’t take better care of herself,” the insider says. “Ellen is used to controlling everything, but it’s gotten to the point where she can’t control her health.” ★

Goldie & Kurt Finally Marry

TWO OF HOLLYWOOD'S
LONGEST-RUNNING LOVERS ARE READY TO MAKE IT LEGAL, AT LAST!

1970 Goldie found Kurt "adorable but too young" when they met two years earlier making The One and Only, Original Family Band.

1984 Real-life chemistry translated to the screen when they teamed up in Swing Shift.

1987 They played very unlikely lovers in the hit comedy Overboard.

1989 Strolling in New York City with their son, Wyatt.

“They’re both excited, but this ritual will be just for family.”

— a friend tells Star

FEW Hollywood romances are as sweet — or as strong — as the one between Kurt Russell and Goldie Hawn. Yet these superstars, together more than three decades, have never felt compelled to tie the knot... until now!

A source close to the long-term lovebirds tells Star that they got engaged on New Year’s Eve, with an intimate wedding planned for later in 2016. “This is one Hollywood story that will have a fairy-tale ending,” the insider says.

would happen!” says the source.

After all, the two met way back in 1968 but, despite a spark, didn’t date. Goldie was married to Gus Trikonis from 1969 to 1976, and split from second husband Bill Hudson, father to kids Kate, 36, and Oliver, 39, in 1982. The following year, Kurt and wife Season Hubley (with whom he has a son, Boston, 35) divorced, and he and Goldie reconnected.

Except for what Goldie called “ups and downs,” they’ve been solid ever since. They had a son together, Wyatt, 29, and Kurt was a father figure for Kate and Oliver, yet a walk down the aisle didn’t seem in the cards. “Between them they had three bad marriages,” reflects the insider. “They couldn’t go through that again.”

SO WHY WED NOW?

Over the years, Goldie and Kurt expressed different views on I do’s. “A lasting relationship isn’t about marriage,” she proclaimed. “It’s about compatibility and communication.” Yet Kurt considered marriage a noble institution. “In the future maybe we will have a need or a desire to say, ‘I feel like doing that now,’” he said.

That time has come — in part to do something special for their family. “They think a wedding would be great for their grandkids to be a part of,” their friend says. But Goldie had one condition! “She told Kurt she’d only marry him if he’d slow down,” says the source. “He can sign on for just one movie a year.”

Though Kurt bought Goldie a ring, “She’s not into flashing it around,” the insider says, adding that the nuptials, which will be held at one of Kurt’s beloved vineyards, will be small. “They see it simply as a celebration of their lives together. They love each other more each day, and the wedding is just another way to express that.” ★

Romance At The Ranch

Kurt popped the question while he and Goldie were enjoying a family vacation at their sprawling ranch in Aspen, Colo.

A TOUGH GUY, A GOLDEN GIRL

From Snake Plissken in 1981’s Escape From New York to John “The Hangman” Ruth in 2015’s The Hateful Eight, Kurt, 64, is known for playing hard cases. Yet he was utterly charming when proposing to his lady love while vacationing at their Colorado homestead over the holidays. “It wasn’t impromptu,” says the family friend. “Kurt even confessed he’d been wanting to ask for her hand for years but was afraid she’d say no.”

Goldie, 70, who got her start as a bikini-clad kook on the ’60s TV comedy hour Rowan & Martin’s Laugh-In, was blown away. “She never thought this

The Bachelor

AM CANCER

AFTER DEALING WITH DEADLY MELANOMA WHILE SHE WAS PREGNANT, SINGLE MOM AMANDA STANTON CAN HANDLE ANY HEAT FROM THE OTHER CONTESTANTS WITH EASE.

Imagine That

"When I picture skin cancer, I picture a tan, leathery old lady [who] probably spent her days sunbathing in the backyard," said Amanda — who hardly fits that profile.

It was the type of confrontation between contestants on The Bachelor that will typically put one of them on the defensive — or even have them dissolve into tears. Earlier this season, designated villain Olivia Caridi snarkily called Amanda Stanton — a divorced mother of daughters Kinsley, 3, and Charlie, 2 — "Teen Mom" to her face, in front of a number of the other women. But instead of letting her emotions get the best of her, Amanda shot Olivia a look that said, "Are you insane???" then coolly informed everyone that she was in her early 20s when she had her first child.

As Star has discovered, it's not surprising that Amanda, 25, a beautician from the affluent Southern California city of Rancho Santa Margarita, would let that insult roll so easily off her back — because of the strength she built years before while dealing with something on her stomach! Specifically, she was diagnosed with deadly skin cancer while she was pregnant.

FACEBOOK/NICK BUONFIGLIO

Staying Strong

Amanda has said a doctor found her melanoma when she was pregnant (above) with her second daughter, Charlie, while still married to hubby Nick Buonfiglio (they divorced last year). They're also the parents of older daughter Kinsley, seen here.

AMANDA'S SCARE

Getting Wired

On an early episode this season, Ben Higgins and Amanda tested their compatibility during a trip to a science lab (that also seems to be equipped with king-sized beds).

RED FLAG

"A lot of crazy things started happening to my skin" when she was carrying her first child, revealed Amanda, who was always careful about applying sunscreen and "could count on one hand" the number of times she's used a tanning bed. She noticed that a couple of her moles had gotten darker and larger; her dermatologist told her that was normal "due to excess melanin during pregnancy," but he also stressed she should keep an eye on them for any other changes.

Nothing further happened during Amanda's first pregnancy. But during her second, "that same mole that I've had for years on my stomach got darker." Because she's "extremely paranoid when it comes to my health — a bit of a hypochondriac," she went back to her dermatologist, and this time, "for my peace of mind," she asked him to remove the mole for testing.

AWARENESS IS KEY

"Thank, God, I did!" said Amanda; her biopsy showed cells of the deadly skin cancer melanoma. "My first reaction was that I was going to die [and that] I probably had six months to live and wouldn't be able to watch my children grow up. But that isn't the case. Luckily, since I was so aware of my body and the way it was changing, I caught it extremely early."

Amanda underscored that "a whole lot of weird things happen to your body when you are pregnant, and it's easy to assume it's just 'weird pregnancy stuff,' but it's better to be safe than sorry." Her advice: Prevent sun damage, and "once a month, get naked and check your skin. It's so, so important!" ★

TWINS HALEY AND EMILY: STRAIGHT UP!

An early dramatic high point this season occurred when Ben had to choose which 23-year-old twin, Haley or Emily Ferguson, to send home, and which to keep around. After some initial tears, Haley stood tall when Ben gave her the boot — but that could've proved hard for her, physically, without some childhood medical assistance.

The twins' parents, Jill and Scott, divorced in 2008. Part of their discussion about finances, as Star discovered in court documents, concerned Haley and Emily's treatment for scoliosis — lateral curvature of the spine. The twins participated in "weekly physical therapy and Pilates," stated their dad, and they each wore "a custom fitted brace while sleeping."

Mother Load

“While Anna is struggling to keep things together at home — between work and raising their son, Jack — Chris will brag over the phone about how much fun he’s having on location,” an insider says. The actress revealed her stress in a Sept. 29 Instagram post (above).

Anna GETS “MUGGED”

AN EYEBROW-RAISING GIFT HIGHLIGHTS CHRIS PRATT’S ULTRA-FLIRTY RELATIONSHIP WITH JENNIFER LAWRENCE — AND UNDERSCORES JUST HOW TROUBLED HIS MARRIAGE TO ANNA FARIS REALLY IS.

As a wrap gift for the crew of their film, Passengers, Chris Pratt and Jennifer Lawrence handed out a potentially scandalous keepsake: a mug emblazoned with a photo of the costars cuddling together in a hammock. With Jen's head resting on Chris' chest in the shot, they could easily be mistaken for a young couple in love.

The only problem? Chris, 36, is married to actress Anna Faris. "I can't imagine any wife being OK with a photo like that," says a family insider. "Seeing her husband looking so intimate with another woman — the hottest young movie star on the planet, no less — would be devastating. It's so disrespectful!"

While it's unclear if Anna, 39, knows about the mug, "she'd freak out if she saw it," the insider says. "With Chris away from home so much lately, it's only natural that she'd feel insecure — especially if it looks like he's getting too close with a beautiful actress." In fact, insiders claim Chris and Anna have drifted so far apart over the past year, their marriage is on the rocks.

ALL WORK AND NO PLAY

A large part of the problem for the couple — who wed in 2009 — is Chris' breakneck work schedule. "He's always off filming on location or touring to promote another project," the source says. "And when he and Anna finally get a moment to catch up, all he talks about is work. It's like Chris is choosing his career over his marriage."

While Anna has claimed she's fine with her husband's "weird" and "surreal" ascent into superstardom, sources close to the Mom star say she's complained that their relationship has become all work and very little play. To make matters more challenging for working-mom Anna, she's the one who has to focus on raising their son, Jack, 3, whenever the Jurassic World star is away.

Chris, on the other hand, couldn't be happier about the direction his life has taken, and often posts long missives on Instagram about his on-set feelings of "joy, gratitude, conviviality [and] camaraderie." "I am doing what I love," he wrote in late January. "It doesn't feel like work. ... I'm having fun." That fun — at least last fall, when he was in Atlanta filming Passengers — often included Jennifer, 25, who has gushed of her costar: "He's so fing funny and nice."

Chris and Jen's bonding experience didn't likely sit well with Anna, the insider says — especially when Jennifer insisted on telling interviewers about their sex scene. "Things really broke down between Anna and Chris over the holidays, and they had a serious talk about his lack of presence at home. It doesn't help that tongues are wagging about his closeness to JLaw," the source says.

NO END IN SIGHT

While the couple maintains a united front, Anna may have dropped a hint about her tense

On The Road Again

"These are the work years. The gravy years are to come," Chris has said of his hectic schedule, which has him traveling constantly. And despite it keeping him away from his family, the actor is loving every moment of his success.

Should Anna Worry?

Chris and Jennifer got so close on their film set, they commemorated it with this mug, featuring a shockingly cozy-looking photo. "It was clear even off-camera that they had a natural connection," an on-set source says.

state of mind last fall — about the same time Chris was in Atlanta with Jennifer — when she Instagrammed a photo of her and Jack on their way to the airport. The caption? "Things look like they might be smoother than they are."

And the situation doesn't seem like it will improve anytime soon. Chris is away again, filming Guardians of the Galaxy Vol. 2, which he's revealed he's "ecstatic" about. "Anna's friends think he should scale back on his workload and focus on his family for a while, but that hasn't happened yet," the source says. "Anna doesn't want to act clingy and get in the way of his career, but he needs to balance his priorities better. He's slipping away, and it's tearing them apart." ★

Kym Johnson's GET FIT TIPS!

INSIDE the DWTS pro's new diet book

AT 39, Dancing With the Stars pro Kym Johnson is on top of the world, thanks to her two mirror ball trophies, fab figure and romance with her 2015 DWTS partner, Shark Tank entrepreneur Robert Herjavec. The Aussie beauty cools her heels with Star to break down the key concepts behind her new health manual, The 5-6-7-8 Diet: The 14-Day Plan for Healthy, Lasting Weight Loss — no waltzing required!

THINK BEYOND THE BARNYARD

Aim for five daily servings of protein, but branch out from chicken and beef to alternative — and often cheaper — types of protein, including nuts, peas and lentils.

EAT THE RAINBOW

Fruits and veggies are key to looking and feeling your best, but don't get stuck in a kale rut. By focusing on eating six different-colored fruits and veggies a day, you'll ensure a healthful variety of vitamins, antioxidants and micronutrients to supercharge weight loss!

ADD IN ANTI-INFLAMMATORY FOODS

Chronic inflammation is widely considered the culprit behind a slew of health issues, from high blood pressure to obesity to allergies. By incorporating leafy greens, spices and healthy fats (like avocados and hemp seeds), you'll help your body lean out and run more efficiently.

WORSHIP WATER

You've heard it before and Kym is saying it again: Hydrate, hydrate, hydrate to shed pounds, clear skin and squash sugar cravings!

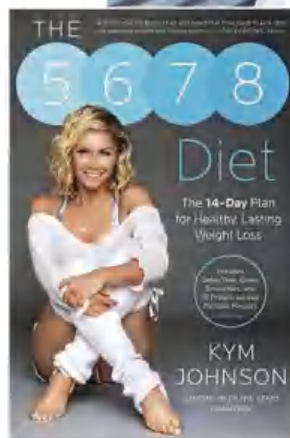

GO ON A TEA TOX

To banish bloat and keep energy up all day, try Kym's detox tea: Combine fresh-brewed green tea with juice of half a lemon and 1 teaspoon each honey and apple cider vinegar. Drink hot or iced!

DITCH THE HIGH-FRUCTOSE CORN SYRUP

The rumors are true: This sugary additive is a nightmare for your body and is added to a myriad of foods, including yogurt, soda, peanut butter and even salad dressing. An extra 30 seconds spent reading a label could save you from unwanted pounds and pudge!

— Diane Cox, Tom's first love

HE WAS COCKY, AMBITIOUS AND INSATIABLE IN THE BEDROOM... THE WOMAN WHO BROKE YOUNG TOM CRUISE'S HEART YEARS AGO REVEALS THE MOST INTIMATE DETAILS EVER ABOUT THE NOTORIOUSLY PRIVATE SUPERSTAR.

ALL!

His #1 Woman

"We didn't talk about marriage, but he told me I was the love of his life, the only person he wanted," Diane (right) says of her two-year relationship with Tom. His letters to her (next page) back that up.

THAT LOVIN' FEELIN'!

Sitting in her New Jersey home, Diane Cox's electric blue eyes gaze at a stack of old photos and letters, mementos from 37 years ago. In the grainy pictures, she's a young girl of 17, and next to her is a feather-haired boy with a million-dollar smile — who would set the world on its ear just four years later, when he danced around in his underwear (something Diane herself saw many times in private, and not always with his underwear on!) as the star of Risky Business. To her, he'll always be Tom Mapother — but the rest of us know him as Hollywood icon Tom Cruise.

THE NEW KID IN TOWN

Tom moved to Diane's hometown of Glen Ridge, N.J., in his senior year of high school, after his mom, who'd left his abusive father when he was in the sixth grade, rented a house in town. Diane, a grade below, at 17, caught his eye at the prom afterparty.

"We both blew off our dates," Diane recalls of that evening. "I already had a feeling we both liked each other. I came out of the bathroom and he was waiting there with a bottle of booze and a huge grin, and we kissed right there outside the bathroom."

The pair, powerfully attracted to each other, immediately began dating. "He's not a tall guy, but he had this big butt and was super charming," Diane ➤

Diane, now happily married with three kids, poses with an old polaroid of Tom, taken when he was just 18.

Tom Foolery

A 19-year-old Tom Cruise parties with his girlfriend Diane (in his arms, left) and their friends during a holiday weekend in 1980. "People are drawn to him immediately," Diane says of Tom. "We had portraits taken in a shopping mall, which his mom kept, but even the photographer was drawn to him."

blushes. "We'd have sex whenever we could. He was a horny guy, like Austin Powers! If my parents weren't around we'd use my dad's car. We used his parents' garage once."

Diane admits it wasn't her blue eyes or elegant beauty that turned Cruise on the most. "He always said how much he liked my back, and that isn't something most 18-year-olds are interested in," she marvels. "Tom was old beyond his years and could see things maturely long before the rest of us. I think he grew up too fast, but he was very close with his three sisters. One time, he told me he was so close with them that they taught him how to kiss!"

HOW SHE BROKE HIS HEART

Tom and Diane dated for more than two years, through a sometimes long-distance relationship during which the aspiring actor traveled to auditions across the country (while writing her letters; see sidebar, far right), and scored his first roles, beginning with the 1981 film Endless Love.

Diane, who would watch Cruise's early performances, blames Tom's intense attitude for their eventual split. "I wanted to see other people at one point and he got very jealous, very overprotective, and I wasn't used to that," she says. "I even said to his sister I wanted to see other people, hoping she might help. The intensity of Tom's whole demeanor really put me off. He was very vulnerable. Once, I accidentally thanked him for flowers somebody else had sent me, and he went crazy.

"Of course, I would get jealous, too, because I'd be trying to call him in California, or he'd be in Vegas, and I wasn't able to get hold of him. That's when I knew our lives were going different ways."

The pair finally split after Tom found out through a friend that Diane had seen another man. At the time, he was on the cusp of stardom, filming Taps, and Diane rushed to Tom's hotel in New York to try and make amends. "We spoke for a while, and he was very direct. He told me, 'I love you, but I'm not in love with you anymore,'" she remembers. "It was so abrupt. We spent the night together and when I woke up he had already gone to film."

NO REGRETS

Diane ran into Tom two years later, when he breezed through town after his breakout role in Risky Business. "He turned up at a house party wearing something that looked like a little beret, and everyone rolled their eyes," she laughs. "He had a different attitude. He told me, 'I'm taking Hollywood by the balls.'"

Though Tom went on to superstardom, Diane thinks she "dodged a bullet" by not staying with him, given his three failed marriages and obsession with Scientology. "I was happy for his success, but I'm shocked by him now," she admits. "He's become a bit of a joke. He's a quack, but who wouldn't want his money and power? No matter what he does, those movies he's making still make millions of dollars — and I'm impressed." ★

Dionne, Remember that

The three letters from Tom that his ex shared with Star reveal an earnest and love-struck 20-year-old, constantly reassuring and affectionate. “You’re a sweet, loving, sensitive, caring, thoughtful, beautiful girl to me,” Tom writes to Diane in one message. “God made you for me, and me for you, darling.” In a cute postscript that hints at the boyish exuberance that would later have him jumping on a couch out of love for Katie Holmes, he declares that he loves Diane “10 x infinity.”

Like any couple, Tom and Diane had their fights. In another letter, Tom apologizes after a spat: “To think I hurt you like that absolutely crushed me... You must always be honest with me — tell me exactly how you feel, your absolute true feelings (even if they hurt)...” He signs it “Your #1 man.”

In his third letter, apparently written near the end of their relationship during a separation, a confident Tom seems to foresee his stardom. “I had my first voice lesson today with Susan Seton,” he writes. “She said it’s going to be very easy working with me — she said I learn extremely fast. (That’s good — I can save more money). She said if I work hard this next year, everything will fall in place for me. At this point in my life Diane, I hear nothing but positive attitudes towards my career. In my eyes I can see nothing but success for myself.”

Celeb fashion news you can use.

The actress, who calls her line a #dreamcometrue, models the clothing herself in the online lookbook.

Q&A with ASHLEY TISDALE

Actress and fashion fanatic Ashley partnered with California-cool line Signorelli for the relaunch of the clothing brand. The tees and tanks in the spring collection — tagged with playful phrases, including Let's Brunch, Wander and I'd Rather Be In Rio — are the ultimate go-to tops to add sass to your wardrobe. Star spoke to Ashley to get the 411 on her latest creative endeavor.

What's your role as creative director?

I get to bring my creative vision and collaborate on the T-shirts and the expanding full apparel line [launching this fall]. And, I add a bit of edge to this brand, which has been a lot of fun.

What's the design process like?

Fast! It's crazy; in fashion everything needs to get done so far in advance. It's cool to be able to collaborate and take inspiration from my life and put it into this line.

Do you have a fave piece?

There are so many I love, but I'd go with Surf Paris [on Ashley, right].

What's the best style advice you've ever received?

It's not what you wear, but how you wear it. Confidence is key!

The trendy 39-piece collection starts at $38 on shopsignorelli.com.

Better Call Saul

Monday, Feb. 15, at 10PM on AMC

When we left lawyer “Slippin’” Jimmy McGill (Bob Odenkirk), he had just decided not to steal a huge stack of unaccounted-for cash. Immediately regretting his decision, he vowed never to make that mistake again. The show, a spin-off of Breaking Bad, stands alone from the earlier series, exploring the evolution of McGill before he became Saul Goodman, attorney for Walter White. The second season of this hit picks up where the first one ended: Jimmy, having created a huge class-action suit against a chain of nursing homes, has a chance to join a major-league law firm as a partner. Can he give up the urge to con everyone to work a straight job? Odenkirk’s performance is amazingly layered, and the show’s writers are pushing him in interesting directions, especially with his string-pulling older brother (Michael McKean).

Verdict It’s one of the best shows on the air. ★★★★★

TELEVISION

11/22/63 Monday, Feb. 15, on Hulu

This new series is based on a Stephen King novel: A high-school teacher named Jake (James Franco) is pulled into a friend’s scheme, involving a time-travel plot to stop the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in 1963. His pal, Al (Chris Cooper), shows him a closet that offers a portal to a specific date in the fall of 1960. He’ll have three years to figure out who really did kill Kennedy and stop them. The catch: If he succeeds, he can never come back—or the past will reset as it was before he went. But, as Al tells him, the past will push back against his attempts to change it, throwing obstacles in his way. Though at times it feels edited for commercials, King’s plotting allows each small climax to ratchet up the tension. Franco is believable as a quick-thinking hero pushed to transcend his limits.

Verdict An intriguing series that does justice to King’s sprawling novel. ★★★★★

Love Friday, Feb. 19, on Netflix

You can feel this new comedy pushing to try something new, in its not-quite rom-com set-up. Paul Rust plays Gus, a nerdy, well-meaning tutor to a child star, who is unlucky in love. He meets a bad-tempered radio-show producer named Mickey (Gillian Jacobs), when she comes up short of cash in front of him in line at a convenience store, and he helps her out. They become friends whose tentative courtship takes a backseat to their respective nightmarish jobs. Gus has to deal with the spoiled young actress; Mickey, meanwhile, works for a loutish radio-therapist (played by the very funny Brett Gelman). That focus keeps them human when they’re together, acting like better versions of themselves.

Produced by Judd Apatow, it’s oddball rhythm at times gets more squirms than laughs, but that’s not necessarily a bad thing.

Verdict This starts out as a definite like. ★★★★★

Zoolander 2

Stars Ben Stiller, Owen Wilson, Penélope Cruz

Story This sequel to the 2001 hit comedy picks up with former supermodels Derek Zoolander (Stiller) and Hansel (Wilson) more than a decade after they disappeared from public view. Zoolander was involved in a scandal, which left both his career and Hansel's face in ruins. Now Interpol — in the form of swimsuit model turned cop Penélope Cruz — needs their help to solve the murders of celebrities who've all died with one of Zoolander's trademark expressions on their faces. Stiller, who directed, also helped write the script, but apparently there was a joke shortage. What we get is a James Bond spoof with a lot of famous cameos — and Will Ferrell and an unrecognizable Kristen Wiig as the bad guys. Too many gags are one-note and dragged out endlessly, as though repeating something that's only mildly funny makes it funnier. It doesn't.

Verdict Laughs are out of style in this flat fashion comedy.

Deadpool COMING SOON

Stars Ryan Reynolds, T.J. Miller, Morena Baccarin, Gina Carano

Reynolds first showed up as this quip-slinging antihero in the terrible 2009 film, X-Men Origins: Wolverine, and nearly stole that film (petty larceny, really). Now he returns in the origin story: How a former Special Forces operative turned mercenary with a big mouth named Wade Wilson was subjected to an experiment that left him with amazing healing powers — but an unbalanced psyche and a head like an eggplant. This is the part of the Marvel Universe aimed at the over-17 crowd, with its hard-R rating for both language and violence. Through it all, Reynolds strides with wise-cracking purpose, though he apparently spends most of the film with a mask on. Even if he doesn't do his own stunts, he does make his own jokes.

SCORING

MOSTLY A's: You're sentimental! You carefully choose the foods you eat and collectibles you buy. It's not the quantity of a thing, but the quality that you take into consideration. When it comes to clothes, you want a classic look, and home goods furniture or other items you buy always have a sense of history.

MOSTLY B's: You're a whimsical romantic! You seek out vibrant trinkets and clothes, rather than old keepsakes. You don't care to food shop or cook either, but will go way out for your sweetie on special occasions. You are lots of fun and have an energetic view of the world.

VICTORIA JUSTICE
Turns 23 on Feb. 19

As Venus moves, you will have moments of realization on what type of relationship you want. Get ready to think big and walk the path of your innermost dreams. Be open to what happens next.

ARIES

MARCH 21–APRIL 19

You are heading in the right direction for career success, just keep going. If you are looking for love, join clubs where you can meet like-minded people.

It is crucial to mix with people with whom you can have an interesting conversation. Now is the time to find someone who wants to make a commitment.

JULY 23–AUG. 22

Be careful not to leave out critical details when relaying information to a lover. Keep the communication channels clear and open in order to enjoy romance.

VIRGO

AUG. 23–SEPT. 22

LIBRA

SEPT. 23–OCT. 22

The star chart is set for love and romance! Keep your schedule flexible — you don't want to miss out on a fabulous moment with someone amazing! Be open to having heart-to-heart discussions.

SCORPIO

OCT. 23–NOV. 21

A family talk can clear the air, but you may not agree on everything. When it's about love, it's up to you to know in your heart what you really want and not to let anyone influence your decision. Make a life plan — and stick to it.

SAGITTARIUS

NOV. 22–DEC. 21

The more information you can gather to support your cause, the likelier you are to win. After all, knowledge is power! With love, try to keep business and money separate; it's not always possible, but it's a good outcome to aim for.

CAPRICORN

DEC. 22–JAN. 19

The contacts you've built over time are valuable — nurture them and expect a new, interesting connection. A career opportunity that is financially viable comes your way. With love, you are not usually possessive; don't start now.

AQUARIUS

JAN. 20–FEB. 18

Life is changeable, and there is a lot to come to light yet. Romance can take your attention now with the love goddess pulling on your heartstrings; take time out and enjoy yourself. You are in demand!

Star BURNING Questions

The Paint Job: Security called Kim and Kanye in a panic after discovering the spray-painted messages on the front entrance of the couple's home.

Who vandalized Kim and Kanye's home?

There goes the neighborhood! As a gated community, Hidden Hills, Calif., rarely has problems with vandalism. So residents were as mystified as they were horrified on Feb. 3 to see purple graffiti defacing Kim Kardashian and Kanye West's $20 million mansion. Security was called to investigate how 'I [Heart] Kim' and 'I [Heart] Kanye' got sprayed large on the front entrance of the couple's new digs. But it turns out this was a crime of pure passion!

According to reports, Kim and Kanye paid a visit to their under-construction compound the night before and did the his-and-hers tagging themselves. Rest assured, though. Kim and Kanye haven't lost their marbles. The mansion, which is undergoing significant renovations, was scheduled to be replastered the very next day, so the love lettering was only temporary. Thank, Yeezus. ★

Why does Hilary owe her ex-hubby money?

When the dust settled on the Hilary Duff–Mike Comrie divorce on Jan. 28, it looked like she was the winner, keeping the house, while all he got was a couple of cars and some jewelry. But thanks to their prenup, the Younger actress actually had to pay her ex $2.5 million to hold on to the Beverly Hills mansion they once shared. The worst part, though? Mike's family is worth hundreds of millions! ★

Is Paris an alcoholic?

Paris Jackson has been the picture of health since her 2013 suicide attempt. The 17-year-old reconnected with her mother, Debbie Rowe, enrolled in a therapeutic boarding school and even took up meditation. But on Feb. 4, Paris revealed that she has secretly been struggling with another demon — alcohol — in a since-deleted Instagram post written in response to a slew of overly critical fans. "This is fing ridiculous. I have AA meeting[s] to go to," Michael Jackson's "stressed out" but sober daughter admitted, noting that she wouldn't succumb to the same pressures as he did. "I appreciate the love and support, but the expectations are fing ridiculous. [My dad] didn't owe you anything, yet he was ripped to shreds daily. I will not let that happen to me." Stay strong! ★

Will Bill die in jail?

No Laughing Matter: On Feb. 3, a Pennsylvania judge ruled that the sexual-assault case against Bill Cosby would move forward, despite a promise made by a former prosecutor back in 2005 that the comedian would never face criminal charges for allegedly assaulting former Temple University employee Andrea Constand. Now, with a preliminary hearing scheduled for March 8, it's clear that the possibility of spending up to a decade in prison if found guilty of the second-degree felony aggravated indecent assault could become all too real for Bill, whose health has been in steady decline since his arrest. Not only does the 78-year-old comedian often stumble his way in and out of the courtroom, requiring the assistance of a cane, but his lawyer Monica Pressley claims additionally that Bill is blind. (He reportedly suffers from keratoconus, a degenerative eye disease that causes the thinning of the cornea.) If convicted, the fallen funnyman would be released from prison around his 88th birthday... that is, if he makes it. ★

"His current health status is that he's a 78-year-old blind man whom they've chosen to charge," says Bill's lawyer. "That's not a defense of a crime, that's just a fact."

Life's A Beach!

Los Angeles, Feb. 4

After staying out of the public eye for quite some time, Rob Kardashian is finally seeing the light again, thanks to new gal pal Blac Chyna! The reality star — who debuted a clean-shaven face — showed up to support his bikini-clad girlfriend as she put her ample assets on display for a photoshoot promoting 138 Water. The pair have been attached at the hip ever since they made their couple debut just a few weeks ago, and the model has even been helping Rob get back in shape! But despite his new, healthier outlook on life, some fans have continued teasing the sock designer about his huskier appearance — though Blac Chyna has been quick to come to his defense, recently telling the haters through a Snapchat video, “worry about yourself.” Sassy!
